M'Carthy Arraigns Mr. Manning

ered around him. While it was Captain McCarthy's meeting with his crowd, Mr. Manning's friends who were there stood by him throughout.

MR. MANNING APOLOGIZES. Mr. Manning came upon the platform within five feet of Captain McCarthy and said:

"Mr. President and Gentlemen, I apologize to the club for the language I used, but not to the man."

Here he waved his hand towards the spot where the fearless and apparently unconcerned man sat.

"I want to make a statement," continued Mr. Manning.

But he was jeered, and the yelling and howling were so loud and furious that it was simply impossible for him to do so.

He kept this place, however, and he would soon have gotten the attention of the crowd, as all were curious to hear what he had to say. But President Davis ruled him out of order and would not let him say another word.

He remained quietly through the remainder of the meeting.

M'Carthy was nervous. He appeared to be nervous, though, like a man who was holding himself with a strong will. He denounced certain newspaper men of the city connected with other dailies. He did not return to the subject at which Mr. Manning had been deeply offended. He continued fifteen minutes and then concluded.

Almost every one thought that trouble would follow as soon as the hall was cleared. It would have done so had not Mr. Manning's friends reasoned with him and urged him with all their influence that that was not the place and time for a difficulty. They kept with him, however, and many of Captain McCarthy's friends clustered about him. It would have been very difficult for the platform about either to have been broken.

Mr. Manning made any attempt to return to the subject of the insult, a terrible fight, with grave consequences, might have followed. Cool heads saved the day.

Captain McCarthy bore himself finely. He has not lost the nerve of the Confederate soldier. Many clear-minded people present could not fall also to sympathize with Mr. Manning. He had been deeply insulted and that he had a right to resent it. It was the time and manner in which he did so that gave offense to their sense of propriety.

Captain McCarthy went on Broad Street with a party of friends. Mr. Manning, also surrounded by his friends, came down Broad. The incident is considered by all now as closed.

Others who spoke at the meeting were Messrs. J. M. Blanks, C. R. Winston, Thos. M. Brennan, J. W. Carr, T. H. Ellett, Harry Huber, Arthur Hargrave, A. J. Hanna, W. J. Kimbrough, John J. King, George Fortney, H. B. Peard, Jr., J. C. Smith and Mr. H. Claiborne Epps, candidates for City Sergeant.

M'Carthy at the Academy. With fairly good audience. He makes One of His Most Spicy Speeches.

Captain McCarthy delivered one of the most fiery speeches of his entire career to a fairly good sized audience at the Academy of Music last night.

The main floor of the house was pretty well filled and some voters were in the galleries. The audience responded liberally to the speaker as he went after street car companies, two of the city papers, public officers and various other with gloves off.

"I have already referred to that brilliant statesman, the Honorable Samuel Stern," he said once in a vein of sarcasm. Taylor's administration, and the wave of applause rolled over the audience.

It was a speech that bristled with biting invective, but which now and then rose to flights of genuine oratory, as he pleaded with his audience to help bring about a better state of affairs in the city government. He said that if you were to turn out the present Council and fill their places with men from the candidates running before you to-day, if there would be any marked improvement."

CHOOSE GOOD MEN. "A bank selects good men for directors," said the speaker, "but you often choose as your Councilmen the commonest scums that walk the streets of your city." He declared, amid applause, that the City Attorney should draw every franchise and invoice, instead of allowing attorneys in interest to do it. He said the gamblers and murderers of the city seemed congregated in the middle police district, and asked why this should be so.

The worst example of shiftlessness and idleness was in the city government, and the speaker did not wonder that it was being among the young men of the city.

The speaker connected the names of two well known men with "fixing the primary," and said some of the papers keep up a war of a root-a-ye type, while corrupt methods went on and the attention of the people was diverted to minor matters. He said word had gone forth that he must be slandered in order to be defeated, and newspapers had proven the Mayor's charge in not properly reporting his speeches.

Captain McCarthy closed with the eloquent appeal to his hearers to turn out on Thursday next and vote to secure a better system of government, and to see that the old city was placed on a safe and firm foundation.

AT BELVIDERE HALL. Mayor Taylor Addresses the Clay Ward Actives Again.

The Clay Ward Actives heard the ward and city candidates for the last time last night at Belvidere Hall. The attendance was good and the applause generous.

The only city candidates to address the club were Mayor Richard M. Taylor and Messrs. H. Claiborne Epps and James C. Smith. The Mayor spoke just four minutes.

He said that he was not a candidate in close-fitting frock coat buttoned up. There was applause when he entered the hall and more when he made his bow to the club.

His beloved brethren and fellow-members of the Clay Ward Actives and fellow-citizens," started the Mayor, and he was off. With a sweeping right-arm gesture and body swing the Mayor stated that he thought it needless to tell you what he was. He wanted, however, he said, to impress on the audience the importance of selecting the best men for the Council. The excellent condition of the city's finances as compared with the situation eight years ago was passed in review.

In 1894 Richmond city bonds were going begging at 92. Now they were listed at 107, and could not be bought for that. The Mayor concluded with thanks for the platform to address the club "all general agents, who had preceded him, had sung a song, and there were loud calls for a song from the Mayor, but no response.

The Mayor sat down amid applause and the Mayor's speech was not present. THE SMITH-EPPS CAMPAIGN.

The hottest part of the meeting came with the speeches of H. C. Epps and J. C. Smith. The audience was evidently divided very early. Mayor and Epps. City Sergeant received uproarious applause and some few hisses.

President Carter prevented any misunderstanding this by referring to the platform to address the club "all general candidates who have complied with the rules of the club." This left out Captain McCarthy, as he has not complied with the rule of the Actives. He was not present, however.

Mr. S. H. Cottrell spoke as a candidate for the Board of Aldermen, and John T. Powers, Howard Heslip, E. T. Mankin, W. A. Crenshaw, H. D. Phillips, H. K. Mankin, J. P. Doty, Leary and E. W. Miner as candidates for the Common Council.

Dr. Wm. J. West and Mr. Thomas J. Dance spoke as candidates for the City Democratic Committee, and Mr. E. J. Jacob and Mr. Stonewall Jackson Beauregard Wright as candidates for justice of the peace.

I know more than one town of three to seven hundred inhabitants where there is not a boy over fifteen years old that I could point to with moral pride or admiration, without mental reserve and keen regret. Or perhaps in another town one lonesome boy may be found, or perhaps two or three unknown to each other and their separate corners, with heart-breaking struggles within, striving to master the strange moral problems of their lives. They would leave the jump, if society were not tobacco-soaked and feud-poisoned and dead.

The churches are dead; the town meeting has become a mockery; the school and roaring farce; society thrives only on tiddledy-winks and lacy cake; the schools live through outside pressure; the majority of farms do not produce cash crops, because they are not worked, or are worked without intellectual activity. Public spirit and private enterprise are dead. Boston Christian Register.

OFFICER FARLEY SHOT BY A NEGRO

ley got his man to the station-house without assistance.

THE NEGRO'S STATEMENT. There he stated that his name was Daniel Williams, that he was about 20 years old, and that he had nothing to do with the robbery of 300. Ezekiel. His size, appearance and light soft hat correspond with those of Mrs. Ezekiel's assailant. The negro stated that he worked at Hick's stable, on Second Street, and that the other negro, named Green, also worked at the same place. He had nothing to say when asked as to the shooting of the policeman.

Dr. Brock extracted the ball from Sergeant Farley's foot at the station-house, and he was taken to his home, No. 336 East Leigh Street, in a carriage. The wound was made by a 32-calibre British bulldog pistol. No money was found on Williams; only a few cartridges.

Captain Angus had the man doubled up in this neighborhood last night and every effort was being made to bag others of the same gang. At the time he was shot Sergeant Farley was in full uniform. The ball entered his left foot in the top of the instep in front, fracturing several of the small bones. The wound is a painful one, but will not permanently lame the plucky officer.

WEAK KIDNEYS AND BLADDER TROUBLE

Had to Pass Water Very Often Day and Night.

DR. KILMER & CO., Binghamton, N. Y.

About two years ago I had a very severe case of kidney and bladder trouble. The pain in the small of my back was so severe that I could not stand it to stay in one position more than a moment or two, and was obliged to pass water very often day and night. I tried medicines and doctors without getting relief. Noticing an advertisement in the Topeka State Journal of Swamp-Root, I determined to give it a trial and bought a bottle. By the time I had finished the first bottle the pain had entirely disappeared from my back. The pain and frequent desire to pass water ceased. However, I continued to take the medicine, using about six bottles in all. That was over a year ago and I have had no return of the trouble since.

(A. H. Nooney.) Chief Engineer, State Capitol Building, Topeka, Kan.

THE VETERANS OF VIRGINIA ARE TURNED TOWARD DALLAS

Virginia to Send a Large Delegation to the Approaching Reunion of Confederates in That City.

THEY WILL BE WELL ENTERTAINED

The veterans of Virginia are now looking towards Dallas, Texas, where the annual Confederate reunion is to be held the last week in this month.

It is estimated that five hundred Virginians will represent the Old Dominion at this great gathering of the soldiers of the sixties, who will come from the States of the South to greet comrades of the days of the greatest struggle history records.

From Richmond there will go delegations from Lee and Pickett Camps, besides many others who will take advantage of the reduced rates to make the trip to the southwest.

Lee Camp's delegation, about fifteen in number, will leave Saturday night, the 19th, over the Southern Railway, under command of Quartermaster D. A. Brown, going by way of Memphis. General Stith Bolling, of Petersburg, will be one of this delegation. The time for the departure of the Pickett Camp delegation has not been decided upon.

MANY FROM THE VALLEY. From the Valley of Virginia there will be the largest delegation. From information received here, through the passenger agents of the railroads, it is estimated that there is going to be a delegation of over 300 persons from this section of the State.

The Texans are writing their friends in Virginia concerning the great preparations they are making for their entrance into and urging that it is not further from Virginia to Texas, than from Texas to Virginia. Realizing the truth of this, many Virginians are going to return the visits many Texans have made to the capital of the Confederacy upon former occasions of reunions. Among the Virginians who will be seen in Dallas will be many of the fair women of the State who go as sponsors and maids of honor.

One of the most recent appointments of the maids of honor is that of Miss Virginia H. Grever, of Smyth county, who will represent the Second Virginia Brigade.

FEATURES OF PROGRAMME. The reunion will begin April 22d. A reception to the sponsors and maids of honor will be given by the Ball Committee of the Sons of Veterans at the Dallas and Elks' Club. In the afternoon of the 22d. On that night the W. L. Gable Camp, U. S. C. V., of Dallas, will give a complimentary ball to the sponsors and their maids of honor.

On Wednesday night, the 23d, the celebrated Mystic Order of Kalphs will give a magnificent parade, combining the attractions of the Mardi Gras festival with those of the reunion.

The official parade of the veterans will be the attraction on Thursday morning, followed by the grand ball of the reunion that night. Besides this fixed programme of entertainment, there are many other features which will be crowded into the days and nights of the reunion. Dallas is making great preparations for the entertainment of her guests, and besides the pitching of numerous tents, the packing of railroad cars are converting every available building and hall into dormitories for the accommodation of those who will crowd the city.

HUELVA COPPER MINES

Chief Source of the World's Supply of Sulphuric Acid.

At a recent meeting of the New York Academy of Sciences Professor James Douglas gave a description, illustrated by a topographic map and numerous lantern slides, of the famous Rio Tinto mines, in Spain, says Science. These mines have been worked from time immemorial, the earliest knowledge of them dating from the time of the Phoenicians, who occupied the country in the eleventh century. B. C. The Romans also obtained a large amount of copper from these deposits. The ore is a copper-bearing pyrite carrying some silica.

The copper-bearing portions run irregularly through the iron pyrite, and the Rio Tinto Company has removed millions of tons of 25 per cent. iron ore in setting at its copper ore. There are some remains of the workings of the ancient mine here. At Tharvis, in particular, the old shaft are very peculiarly constructed, one at least being spiral to enable the miners to carry the ore on their backs. Shafts were excavated at intervals in the walls of the shaft to enable the men to rest their loads on their toilsome journey to the surface.

The mines are now worked as open-air diggings in circular terraces. They yield about two million tons of ore per year, and it is estimated that there are one hundred and sixty million tons in sight.

The great bulk of the world's supply of sulphuric acid is obtained from the Rio Tinto pyrite, which is shipped all over the world for the purpose of manufacturing the acid. Five hundred thousand tons per year are utilized in this way.

The Police Court.

William Young (colored), charged with threatening to shoot two other negroes, was discharged.

Junius Lee was drunk and begging on the street, where he was sent to jail for thirty days.

W. S. Mattingly was allowed to pay $1 at Police Station and was freed on the charge of being drunk.

Henderson Johnson exasperated about $2 worth of tobacco juice on the street.

Finally there came the Chesapeake and Ohio men, who were charged with having been made that they blocked the street car service at Seventh and Canal Streets. This was allowed to go over until next Wednesday.

DEATHS OF A DAY.

(By Associated Press.)

GRAND KALPIS, MICH., April 5.—Anthur R. Root, Republican candidate for Mayor, died early this morning at Butler's Hospital, where he had been suffering from typhoid fever since March 18th. The day he was nominated at the primary election, to run against George R. Peary. His illness was doubtless aggravated by his work in the hard campaign that preceded the primary. The election takes place next Monday.

OBITUARY.

Miss Fannie E. Crump.

Departed this life at Washington, D. C., March 30th, 1902, Fannie E. Crump, eldest daughter of B. B. and Annie M. Crump, aged thirty-two years. Her remains reached Richmond, March 31st at 1:45 o'clock P. M. over the Seaboard Air-Line and were met by sympathizing friends and borne to Hollywood Cemetery, where the funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. W. Leary, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church, of which she was a consistent member.

Surrounded by a large host of sympathizing friends the services were very impressive, after which the body was lowered in the grave as a temporary resting-place until Jesus comes to make up his jewels.

A devoted daughter, a devoted sister and a faithful friend, ever ready and willing to offer a helping hand or speak a kind word to those afflicted or distressed, never thinking of herself, her pleasures were to live for others around her. She bore her suffering with Christian fortitude, never complaining, but saying "The Lord's will be done."

Her aged mother and father were at her bedside when the angel of death appeared ministering to her every need with their hearts bowed down in humble submission to God's will, but the angel of death placed its cold hand upon her and bore her away to that mansion in the sky to rest with Jesus. Her last words were, "Tell my sisters and brothers not to forget me, and I will watch and wait at the heavenly gate to clasp their hands." May she rest in peace.

BY A FRIEND.

Mrs. Mary A. Stevenson.

Mrs. Mary A. Stevenson died at 2 o'clock this morning at the residence of her son, Mr. A. C. Stevenson, No. 280 East Broad Street. Death resulted from apoplexy, with which she was stricken Friday afternoon. Up to that time she had been in good health for one of her age.

Mrs. Stevenson was a native and lifelong resident of Richmond. She was a Miss Cole, and her father, a well known seafaring man of that day, left here for Boston when she was about ten years old, accompanied by one of his sons, and neither they nor she were heard from again. Mrs. Stevenson was in her seventy-eighth year. Her husband, Mr. James Y. Stevenson, died about ten years ago, was a prominent citizen, a member of the old Richmond Grays, a Mason and an Odd Fellows member, survived by four sons. These are Messrs. A. C. Stevenson, manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company here; James L. and George L., of Norfolk, and W. W. Stevenson, manager for Thomas E. Evans.

The funeral will take place from the residence to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The service will be conducted by Rev. R. A. Goodwin, of St. John's Church, of which she was a member.
